

#36: The end is near...

Just a few more days to enjoy the great year of 2018! And what a year it has been.

The developments in our practice area have been both interesting and exciting as well as a bit frustrating at times. The developments however all have one thing in common; they bring a lot of opportunities. We hope to have given you inspiration to use them.

Of course we will continue to share our view on the legal developments with you in the new year. But for now; happy holidays and we wish you all the best for 2019!
